What do you do for a living?

WHEN YOU ARE AT YOUR BEST (DOING WHAT YOU DO FOR A LIVING),
WHAT SPECIFICALLY ARE YOU DOING?

So...what keeps you from doing whatever it is that you are doing when you are at your best doing what you do for a living?

The chaos and the interruptions of the day are killing us

When was the last time you felt truly productive at work?

Every day, information overwhelms us. Tasks get left undone. Messages go unanswered. Meetings dominate our time. The emails pile up.

Today's tools are not adequate for the workplace of the future.

The average interaction worker spends an estimated 28% of the work week managing e-mail.¹

Up to 30% of email time could be repurposed by adopting social collaboration tools for communication.²

Needs Action & Waiting For

The screenshot displays an email client interface. At the top, there is a row of ten circular profile pictures. Below this, a navigation bar includes a 'Today' button with a refresh icon, and buttons for 'Reply', 'Reply All', and 'Forward'. To the right of these are icons for a star, an envelope, a trash can, a group of people, a thumbs up, and a three-dot menu. Further right is a folder icon and an 'Inbox' button with a dropdown arrow. The main content area shows an email from Mahul Patel to a group of recipients. The email body contains the text 'Hi Guys,' followed by a paragraph about updating external-facing material for a public website, and another paragraph asking Omar to organize a meeting. A document attachment titled 'Project Greenwell HR Policy.docx' is shown. A dropdown menu is open over the email, with 'Today' highlighted by a red rectangle. The dropdown menu also lists 'Tomorrow', 'In 2 Days', 'Next Week', and 'Anytime' (which is selected with a blue dot). The left sidebar shows a calendar view with dates from Feb 3 to Feb 10.
